Holland driver wants part in reality show

Thursday, July 13, 2006

By Steve Kaminski
The Grand Rapids Press

Marc Miller of Holland isn't kissing babies or passing out campaign buttons, and he hasn't hired Karl Rove, either.

But Miller does want your vote.

Miller hopes to participate in a new reality stock car racing television show, "Racin' For a Livin'," which will be filmed at an undisclosed location this fall and aired in early 2007.

Miller was one of 21 drivers chosen for the show's "wild card" segment, and the top five finishers in an online voting contest will be invited to race on the show.

Drivers will compete each week once they make the show.

They will be judged on lap times, scored by a judging panel of racing veterans. Their appearance and attitude away from the track and dealing with the fans will be taken into account, too.

The panel will include four-time Indy 500 winner A.J. Foyt and Daytona 500 winner Ward Burton. Wild-card voting continues through July 31.

Miller was ranked 10th overall in online voting when the most recent update was announced last Saturday.

Miller currently races part-time in the Canada-based CASCAR circuit.

MICHIGAN INTERNATIONAL SPEEDWAY has announced that Dale Earnhardt Jr. will compete in the track's NASCAR Busch Series Carfax 250 on Aug. 19. It will be Earnhardt's third Busch start of the season; he won the June 30 race at Daytona. He won the 1999 MIS Busch race after qualifying third.

TICKETS FOR ALL remaining 2006 events at MIS are available by calling the MIS ticket hotline at (800) 354-1010 or by visiting www.MISpeedway.com.
